We give below the returns of the elections yesterday as far as received to the hour of going to press. Reports from several Western States failed to reach us in season for our first edition.

The comparatively meagre returns of the city election are to be attributed to the difficulty in canvassing the votes, the law providing that the State and county tickets shall be counted together.

It will be seen that the democrats have made a clean sweep in this State, carrying their Governor, the Mayor and all their Congressional candidates in this city, and gaining one or two Congressmen in the interior—there being a change of 5,000 votes in their favor in the Fifteenth district. It is difficult to determine the precise majorities, but Hoffman is re-elected by upwards of 50,000, and Mayor Hall by perhaps 20,000 majority. The contest in this city was principally directed toward the mayoralty ticket, but it will prove a source of congratulation for the lovers of good order to know that the high-minded and chivalric champion of Tammany, Oakey Hall, has received a substantial endorsement at the hands of his fellow citizens.

There has been a sort of political earthquake in New Jersey, the republicans gaining two members of Congress, and defeating Orestes Cleveland, democrat, by perhaps three thousand majority—a change of about five thousand votes. This will offset the democratic gain in the New York Fifteenth district. The republicans are as highly jubilant over their victory in New Jersey as the democrats are over theirs in New York.

The family quarrel in Rhode Island has resulted in the defeat of Congressman Jencks, and the election of Ben F. Eames, the Sprague candidate.

The republicans have made gains in Kentucky, and it is stated, have probably defeated Beck in the Seventh Congressional district. The negro vote in Kentucky went en masse for the republicans.

The democrats have made some gains in Tennessee.

In Massachusetts the republicans have carried everything before them, as usual, even redeeming the city of Boston from its democratic majority. John Quincy Adams, democratic candidate for Governor, is elected to the Legislature.

There were no disturbances, no riots and no rioting at any place yet heard from except an unfortunate affair in New Jersey. Probably there never was a more quiet election nor a more beautiful election in the city of New York than that which smiled upon our voting population yesterday.

As we go to press we are without returns from Missouri, Florida, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota and Nevada.

We give further reports of the recent elections in South Carolina and Louisiana, from which it will be seen that four, perhaps five, colored representatives have been elected.

Annexed are the returns of the elections yesterday, so far as received:
